

OPEN DEATH CONVERSATION

At Zen Hospice Project, we want to change the way we die in our culture. We do this by supporting persons at the end-of-life with mindful and compassionate care. Through conversation, we bring death out into the open.

We dare to look at death directly and consider what we want for ourselves. We consider the decisions at end-of-life we might make for ourselves and loved ones. At Zen Hospice Project, we trust the value in contemplating one's own death, as a way of embracing life fully.

The Open Death Conversation is a forum for discussing the many aspects of death and dying. We are not attached to any outcome. We do not direct the conversation. Everyone is invited; we only ask that participants show up with an open heart and open mind, and allow themselves to go where they need to go.

We have no agenda other than to generate meaningful, energetic conversation free from judgment. Drawing inspiration from the thousands of heartfelt conversations that Zen Hospice Project has had over the years of caring for dying persons and their families, we invite you to join us through two different programs.

Open Death Conversation: An Evening Gathering

Our Open Death Conversation: An Evening Gathering is an excellent way to explore conversations dealing with end-of-life. An informal evening brings people together from across the country to discuss topics relating to death. We offer a friendly atmosphere, comfortable seating and light refreshments.
